EDIT

Indentured workers to the Corpus; the indispensable backbone of the Corpus business model on Venus. Manning factories, rail tractors and mines they work to pay off the artificial bodies (rigs) they bought in order to work.

Risen from the ashes, Solaris United returns to free the Solaris people from their mental shackles and physical servitude. No being should have to work to own their own mind, their own body, their own

Solaris United

Alignments

This Syndicate is neutral to other Syndicates.

The Solaris United are a rebel group of Solaris workers, seeking to liberate their fellow unhappy laborers who work for Nef Anyo underground in Fortuna. The Solaris workers possess body augmentations that make them appear as Corpus-machine hybrids, and are responsible for processing the underground network of Orokin terraformation coolant and refining it for use back on the scorched surface of Orb Vallis on Venus.

To fully access this Syndicate, the player must complete the Vox Solaris quest.

Cuisine

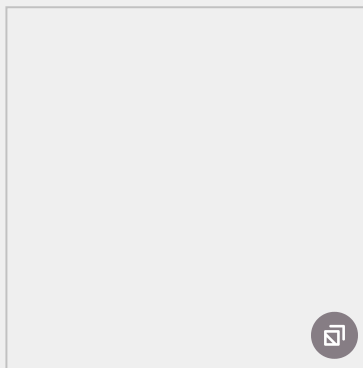

Due to the bodily reconfiguration Solari augments cause, most Solari no longer possess traditional lungs and stomachs, and thus, are unable to eat in the traditional sense. Instead most heavily augmented Solari consume nutrient canisters through the use of gastronomy seals.

Less augmented Solari, such as the children, still posses traditional digestive tracts, and instead consume energy bars and canned fish.

These rations are created and distributed by the Corpus Feed and Research Division, which are created from the processed and ground-up fauna of the Orb Vallis^[1].

Trivia

- Solaris is the Latin word for "solar", "of the sun".
- Before the release of Update 24, the faction used a different sigil, which was later replaced by the emblem of Fortuna itself. Part of the original emblem is still used for the Vox Solaris sigil.
- Before the release of Fortuna, Solaris could be seen on several Tenno relays.
- The Solaris United symbol was previously seen in Digital Extremes' *The Amazing Eternals (https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/The_Amazing_Eternals), as a recurring symbol (<https://www.artstation.com/artwork/Oyg2Pg>) in one of the multiplayer maps. Since the game was cancelled, it was presumably reused and recycled back into Warframe.
