FACTIONS SIGILS

Syndicates are groups of interest operating throughout the Origin System, separate from the Corpus or Grineer, and ally with the Tenno. These factions have their own ideologies and goals regarding the fate of the system, with some inevitably in disagreement with another syndicate. The Syndicate console on the Orbiter is unlocked once a player has reached Mastery Rank 3. Syndicates can be accessed earlier from a Relay through the Syndicate representatives there (only Cephalon and Octon can be joined).

that group and earning access to unique offerings. Raising familiarity with one group, however, can incur the anger of another group, and even lead them to launch hits against a player, so choosing which syndicate to gain standing with is important.

There are currently 18 known Syndicates, each with its own unique themes and goals. Every Faction syndicate has a particular relationship with the others: favorable, neutral, negative or hostile. Earning reputation with a particular group also earns reputation to a group they have favorable relationships with, but decreases reputation with another group that they oppose. A few Syndicates are also considered entirely Neutral, whom players are able to gain reputation with while not affecting reputation with other Syndicates.

CONCLAVE

We were led astray. We forgot the Conclave, so when that new evil came, we were not prepared. This is how we failed the Orokin. You went into stasis, but not me. I searched the long path for redemption, for the kind of balance only The Conclave can create.

CEPHALON SIMARIS

Cephalon Simaris is building a digital oasis called Sanctuary. Simaris requires Tenno to hunt down and 'convert' special targets in a process called 'Synthesis'. In exchange, Simaris promises enlightenment to his hunters.

OSTRON

A tight knit band of merchants, hucksters and survivors, the Ostrons call Cetus their home. The town was build around an Orokin Tower, that both protects and nourishes them.

VENTKIDS

Hangin' with their logical fam in the ducts of Fortuna, the Ventkids get by stealing parts from the Corpus and running K-Drive races out in the Vallis. At night the ventways bang to the sound of skeg - to the chagrin of the locals.

ENTRATI

Heirs to the legacy of Albrecht Entrati, his powerful Orokin family encountered disaster, isolation and bitter division on Deimos. The arrival of the Tenno beneficiaries of their Void research, may bring fresh hope - and a deeper understanding of the world that has trapped their family.

NECRALOID

While the Entrati famili's cohort of lethal Necramechs succumbed to the corrupting influence of Deimos, Loid's shielding kept him sane, as well as preserving what was left of his 'passenger', the Cephalon Otak. Together they maintain a proud tradition of loyal service.

Gaining Reputation and Ranking

Starting at Mastery Rank 0, the Daily Standing Cap gain for all Faction Syndicates will start at 16,000 and increase by 500 per rank. This cap will reset at 0:00 UTC every day.

Faction

To advance through Faction Syndicate rankings, players require Standing earned by forming a Pledge, which is done by interfacing with the Syndicate terminal in the Arbiter. 15% of accumulated Affinity is converted into Standing. Faction Standing can also be gained by

Rank	Minimum Standing	Maximum Standing
5	0	132,000
4	0	99,000
3	0	70,000
2	0	44,000
1	0	22,000
0	-5,000	5,000
-1	-22,000	0

ite Medallions found in said

Once earned, Standing can be spent to purchase offerings including Sigils and to rank up, which requires the maximum possible standing at the current rank and a sacrifice requested by a syndicate such as credits and resources. All of the Standing earned will be spent in the rank up. For every promotion players can pick a gift from the Syndicate.

Demotion can occur when standing goes below the minimum value for the current rank. This can be caused by aiding an opposed or enemy syndicate. Since Update 16, Syndicates no longer require multiple sacrifices if players drop from a higher tier to a lower one. Players will only need to make one sacrifice when moving between tiers.

Standing with a syndicate can be negative, which occurs if a player has been performing favors for an opposing or enemy syndicate. There is a lower limit on how much negative standing a player can have with a syndicate, currently capped at -44,000 standing. A player can achieve two negative rankings within a Syndicate, should players wish to regain favor with a particular Syndicate: they must earn Standing for them, then provide sacrifices in order to escape from any negative ranks they have attained. To advance from -44,000 standing to the highest 132,000 using only medallions you would need at most 886 medallions (using only the ones that are worth 500).

Neutral

All Neutral Syndicates have their own varied methods of obtaining standing. Unlike Factions, Neutrals cannot receive demotions or negative standing and each Neutral Syndicate has their own Daily Standing Cap.

Death Squads

When a Tenno has negative favor with a Syndicate, they are considered hated by that group, and the Syndicate in question will begin to send Death Squads consisting of a group of elite Eximus troops to hunt down said Tenno. Similar to Assassins like the Stalker, Death Squads can randomly appear in a mission, and will announce their presence via flickering lights, and a declaration from the Syndicate leader, though Death Squads will arrive immediately after a single transmission. Death Squad arrivals can be differentiated from normal Assassin arrivals by the entire squad being covered in a red light. Like Assassins, in the event the Death Squad succeeds in taking out their target Tenno, they will disappear. Unlike regular Assassins, Death Squads do not have s from the opposing Syndicate whether they are currently eligible to rate reputation.

Notably, killing off a Death Squad does nothing to discourage the syndicate that sent them, and has no impact upon standing either way. Other Tenno can freely assist their teammates assaulted by Death Squads without consequence to standing.

At Rank 1 of disfavor, Syndicates will send Eximus Squads, which consist of 3-5 Eximus units. If a player reaches Rank 2, Eximus Platoons will be sent in instead, consisting of 5-8 Eximus units. Like normal Eximus they possess Overguard to grant them immunity to crowd control effects like Chaos, Stasis, and Gloom until it is removed.

Upon elimination, each Eximus unit has a chance to drop a specter blueprint of their respective type.

Each syndicate's Death Squad always consist of one type of enemy with one specific Eximus type:

Syndicate Alerts

Syndicate Alerts are special Alert missions unlocked by attaining Rank 1 in a particular syndicate. Similar to regular Alerts, they act as an alternative mission on a node. In contrast, however, missions offered by Syndicates have a fixed expiration time of 24 hours which resets each day at the same time as sorties. The reward for completing this variation of the Alert is a large amount of standing in the syndicate providing the mission (as well as the normal Standing changes in related

Join the Quest! Share Your Views on Upcoming Games! ✕ mit, not contributing to nor ity during the mission is Syndicate Alerts can be identified by their mission icons being represented by the Syndicate's emblem. Like with Quests and Alerts, Syndicate Alerts have their own tab in the World State panel in the Navigation Console of the Orbiter, which can be used to check for active alerts.

Three Alerts per Syndicate will be available each day. If the node an Alert is on has not been unlocked, it will be unavailable for the player until otherwise. Note that Tenno can receive Syndicate Alerts from multiple Syndicates simultaneously, with the normal requirement of Rank 1 in each said Syndicate.

Unlike regular Alerts, Syndicate Alerts can have Operatives, which are combat-capable NPC's representing the Syndicates that accompany the Tenno during the mission. Scaled to the level of their enemies, they have substantial health and shields, and wield the signature weapon of their Syndicate in higher level Alerts.

As a final note, Syndicate missions can and will ignore regular enemy spawn listings for the tileset. This can lead to encountering Hellions in the Grineer Asteroid set, and Anti MOAs outside of the Corpus Gas City. In addition Assassins will not spawn in Syndicate missions.

Syndicate Medallions

Main article: Syndicate Medallions

Syndicate Alerts will spawn Syndicate Medallions throughout the map, which can be gathered and redeemed in the Syndicate's Relay enclave for Standing. Like the alert rewards themselves, they do not count towards the daily Standing limit. Syndicate Alerts will always spawn 8 Syndicate Medallions on each mission, except for Defense and Interception missions, which will spawn 0 - 2 Syndicate Medallions depending on the tileset. Notable exceptions are the Grineer Sealab and Grineer Galleon tilesets, which will spawn 8 Syndicate medallions regardless of mission type.

To be able to find the medallions, players must have favorable standing with the syndicate that offered the Alert.

Allies will also receive immediate shield bonuses during each pulse by the Eximus regardless of the state of their shields. It is also armed with a laser rifle similar to the one on a Scavenger Drone. 2) Eximus of this type have no benefits other than generally being meat shields. 3) Despite being an Ancient Healer, it does not have the normal damage reduction aura of normal Eximus Healers of this type (requires more testing).

Rank 2

At Rank 2, Syndicates can offer a Syndicate Relic Pack consisting of 3 random Void Relics for 20000 Syndicate Standing.

Two of the relics will be random Lith Era Relic or Meso Era Relic, with the 3rd relic guaranteed to be either a random Neo Era Relic or Axi Era Relic.

Tips

- The more affinity you get (from kills, assists and abilities), the more standing you will receive for the Syndicate you have pledged allegiance to.
- There are 3 groups of syndicates that each consist of syndicates that are all non-hostile towards each other, which means you can be boosting relations with all syndicates within a group in parallel without losing standing with any other syndicate within the group:
 - New Loka, The Perrin Sequence, Red Veil are all non-hostile towards each other.
 - If you choose this group of syndicates you cannot get Rank 5 Warframe augment mods for Excalibur, Frost, Limbo, Mirage, Nezha, Nova, and Qorvex.
 - If you chose this group of syndicates you can get the following archweapon(s), Onorix and Rathbone.
 - Arbiters of Hexis, Cephalon Suda, Steel Meridian are all non-hostile towards each other.
 - If you choose this group of syndicates you cannot get Rank 5 Warframe augment mods for Dagath, Mag, Nekros, Lavos, Trinity, Valkyr, Zephyr, and Titania.
 - If you chose this group of syndicates you can get the following archweapon(s), Corvas and Dual Decurion.
 - Red Veil, Steel Meridian is the smallest group, as each member is hostile to 2 different other syndicates.
 - If you choose this group of syndicates you cannot get Rank 5 Warframe augment mods for Banshee, Chroma, Equinox, Gara, Hydroid, Inaros, Ivara, Limbo, Mag, Mirage, Nyx, Octavia, Revenant, Trinity, Valkyr, Vauban, and you can get the following

- Further, each of the 2 bigger groups can be expanded by one additional syndicate that while cannot be farmed directly and will be hampered by 2 of the 3 core group members, nevertheless can be slowly farmed as an ally of 1 of the 3 core group members:
 - New Loka, The Perrin Sequence, Red Veil adds Steel Meridian as a catching-up syndicate (indirectly farmable via Red Veil).
 - If you choose this group of syndicates you cannot get Rank 5 Warframe augment mods for Limbo and Mirage.
 - You can however get Rank 5 Warframe augments for Excalibur, Frost, Nezha, Nova, and Qorvex from Steel Meridian, the catching up syndicate.
 - If you chose this group of syndicates you can get the following archweapon(s), Agkuza, Kaszas, Onorix, and Rathbone.
 - Arbiters of Hexis, Cephalon Suda, Steel Meridian adds Red Veil as a catching-up syndicate (indirectly farmable via Steel Meridian).
 - If you choose this group of syndicates you cannot get Rank 5 Warframe augment mods for Mag, Trinity, and Valkyr.
 - You can however get Rank 5 Warframe augments for Dagath, Nekros, Zephyr, and Titania from Red Veil, the catching up syndicate.
 - If you chose this group of syndicates you can get the following archweapon(s), Corvas, Dual Decurion, Fluctus, Kaszas, and Velocitus.
- There are three (3) other archweapons that come from syndicates, you cannot get them from any of the above combinations:
 - Centaur and Phaedra can be obtained from Arbiters of Hexis, New Loka, and The Perrin Sequence.
 - Cyngas can be obtained from Arbiters of Hexis, Cephalon Suda, and The Perrin Sequence.

- It is much harder to have Rank 5 with more than 4 syndicates as it would require tedious micromanagement (as shown in the table below).
- If you desire to farm the respective Death Squads, it is possible to have hated standing with 4 groups at once. Simply switch between Steel Meridian, and Red ch reduce 2 of the remaining an raise your reputation with

Notes

- Allied reputation gain/loss does not affect the reputation of other factions. For example, increasing reputation with Steel Meridian will increase reputation with the Red Veil, however, this Red Veil increase will not positively or negatively affect any of the factions associated with the Red Veil.
- Death Squads will be momentarily stunned by Nyx's Chaos, but will otherwise be unaffected.
- Having a negative rank with a syndicate will summon Eximus death squads and the only way to avoid further confrontation with a particular syndicate is to restore the reputation back to neutral. Unlike Death Marks, death squads will not stop attacking the player until they get a neutral rank with that faction.
- Even when in a squad with a targeted player, Death Squads will not target players other than the targeted player, allowing the target to 'hide' whilst other players defeat the squad.
- At the end-of-mission screen, there are 4 syndicate standings visible in the Syndicate Standings tab, when an object is scanned for Cephalon Simaris in the mission (Helios scans do not give standing for Cephalon Simaris) its stats replace the stats of the syndicate opposed to the one you are doing a mission for/have a Pledge. However half the amount of standing you earn is still detracted from the opposed syndicate, even though it does not show.

Bugs

- There is a bug during Death Squad announcements where the Syndicate leader will appear on the player's screen, but without saying anything, and even if the player manages to defeat the Death Squad, the image of the Syndicate leader will still remain on the player screen.
 - Also happens at the start of syndicate missions.
- Sometimes the transmission portrait for the syndicate mission will show a background without the character there.
- Syndicate death squads may sometimes not spawn or have a long delay when inside the spy terminal room. They will appear normally as soon as you leave the room however.
