Collaboration Test

< Orokin Moon

This room is best completed with 4 players. However it is possible to do solo with the use of Operator and summons such as Effigy, Molt, Specters, and Sentry Guns. Note that Pherliac Pods cannot be used to press down on the buttons.

1. Step on the pad by the entrance.
This pad must be held down by a player or Operator.
2. Another player (or Operator in focus form, walking form doesn't work) must step on the new pad that was released – One method of performing this solo would be to place your Warframe on the new pad and to run back to the first pad with your operator.
3. Step on the pads on the 4 corners of the center vault. Each corner will open a small entrance where there are 2 pads to step on.
4. Once all 4 corners (8 pads) are activated, the bottom of the center room will open. Enter.
5. Inside the center room, there will be 4 pressure pads that players must stay on

WARFRAME Wiki

6. The portal will be in the final room

This test rewards  Coaction Drift.

Does this challenge even spawn if you don't have players with you? Going solo, invite, friends, doesn't matter, ran 10+ runs of capture and not a single atom of this challenge spawns

A Fandom user • 9/21/2024

It does

How do we find this test? Which node?

Any node on lua.

Decoy from loki doesn't work

A Fandom user • 3/22/2024

It does, I just did it. The problem is when Decoys spot enemies below, they move off the spot to shoot them. Just get rid of enemies first and they should stay still.

They need to implement a bypass on this for solo players. It's the only player count that this can't be naturally completed with (even just 2 players = 2 frames and 2 operators, thus 4 bodies).

A Fandom user • 11/11/2023

Something worth clarifying: specters and on call crew can be called at the same time. so you can have your operator, your frame, a specter and a crew member to cover all the slots. i wasnt sure so i had to test it myself.

But yes, for players who havent unlocked railjack content yet, there needs to be a bypass for solo missions. like a statue that can be picked up and placed on a slot

Just use chroma, chroma skin, clem, and operator form? It's really not that

The On-call Crewmate can be used the same way as a specter, which means any frame can do it solo : a specter, a crewmate, the frame and the operator

Nidus is the best frame to solo this with. Doesn't require operator, specter, or warframe standing on the plates due to the large amount of summons his 4th creates.

Holy Moly, I brought Atlas into this test and when it come to the last 4 plates part I thought all hopes are gone, but when I press my 4 the Rumlbers just stands on the plate nicely, they don't even move, then I pop my operator and finish the test

I need to treat these guys better

A Fandom user • 1/25/2024

Lol I need to try that

I just did it solo by using Warframe+Operator+Clem Clone+Corrupted Lancer Specter.
The tricky part was to let the positioning of the Launcher on the pressure pad but managed by letting him move from mid room then instantly holding him on his track.
By doing so the animation will usually stop right onto the pressure pad.
Profit

I did this with Chroma. I used Efigy, Specter and Operator.

You can solo it with just a Loki and your Operator, without any non-ability summons.

Apparently enemy units can trigger the final four pads too. Disarm an enemy and switch teleport them into the room, place a Decoy on one of the pads, leave your Warframe on another, switch to your Operator and use Void Blast to push the enemy into position, and quickly move to the last pad before they get up. It's a bit difficult, but you should be able to get it with a few tries. You also need to be quick in case the enemy kills your Decoy.

In theory this also means you could do it without having to use your Operator or a Decoy, but I'm not sure why'd you go through the trouble of placing more than one enemy at the required positions.

I've updated this as it is possible to perform solo (not just by glitching with Loki). I performed this solo with Saryn by using my warframe and operator to activate the first two pads. The rest is simple from there up until the final room in the centre in which you must summon another unit such as an Ancient Healer and have it wait

Tried to solo this recently with Loki. Neither decoy nor specters counted towards the first two pressure plate's activation, making me suspect that the same would be true for any other pressure plates in this test. Also, the gaps in the corners of the bottom grate were blocked with invisible walls, couldn't even shoot through with my prisma grakata (although it was still possible to get a decoy to spawn inside, but no way to switch teleport with it as it was covered by the invisible wall). When the test first came out, I cheesed it with my main account using Loki, but now that I made another account and went to get the coercion drift for it, I discovered that the exploits in the test had been fixed.

picked loki, went in a couple of runs to find the room, moved below the middle part and the try and error fun could begin. First: place your decoy nicely, second: spam from all different angles your teleport, third: waste a specter, fourth: profit can you do it solo? yes, but only with loki cause switch teleport...

frames listed that can push a plate down like Chroma (unlockable very early on), Loki, or Protea, and then use the operator transference which you get naturally by doing the main quest, which you should be done before this anyways.

Can be done solo with Loki, using Decoy + Switch TP. Requires some tricky decoy placement. Under the central, elevated room there is a symmetrical grate with four corners. You can place a decoy through one of the corners, and then switch with the decoy. The "window" to do this in is very small and can be better seen by observing the invisible walls around it by where they stop bullets. Switch TP must be cast through this window. The next grate is on the ceiling. This grate is actually composed of four flaps - one on each side of the square hole. However, they are not flush, but stacked on top of each other, meaning between the 1st and 4th flaps there is a window through which Decoy can be cast and switched with.
