What can I use to effectively keep lures alive in solo eidolons?

Question/Request

I love eidolons in many ways, but the one and only thing that stops me from doing them is the reliance on lures so I basically ignore it entirely. I just don't understand how I'm supposed to keep the lures alive unless I sacrifice the entire build I would want to use to actually solo the eidolons.

Interesting. I'll give that a shot and see how it goes. Cheers.

Short of that, you can try not standing directly under the Eidolon so that if it stomps the ground it will deal a lot less Damage to the Lures. also Killing Vomvalysts rather than letting them shoot at the Lures.

If you don't want to change Warframes/Focus and those remediations aren't enough for you, increase your Damage more. move through both Shield and Health Phases in a single shot/hit.

Or, if you don't want to do all of the jobs at once, then don't play Solo. you don't have to, there's plenty of Players. if you're sure that you know what you're doing and you want to look for others that definitely do, you can always use Recruiting Chat.

I hunt Eidolons with Trinity for this reason. Yeah, it's slower, but it's the safe option; a Trinity built around her 4 is almost guaranteed to keep the lures alive.

I eventually took to not grabbing lures until the last limb. Enough little buggers rush up to fill the lures as you do the last limb, and the lures only take damage that short bit of time. Made it consistent to keep the lures alive. Probably not for everyone, but works for me.

If I can't find a setup that works for me and hoarding too many lures doesn't work I'll see how I go with that. Cheers.

cycle through limbs fast enough that you don't need to worry about them/just step aside if the eidolon slams and the lures will follow you/bring a healer like trinity or wisp close to no damage but the specter itself dies super fast so youll have to keep refreshing it which really isnt worth it.

you can try Oberon

Smite adds radiation damage to your weapons, the grass protects you and lures during energy spikes .
Renewal in bursts adds armor as well

In case you find yourself struggling during hydrolyst , the ancient healer specter also helps, but you might to have drop the specter often because it dies quickly

I'll see how I go with another set up first using vazarin then will give oberon a shot, cheers.

I have over 100 of them so should be fine with spectres then at least
