Tactics

In battle, Misery wields an Ether Reaper.

Steel Path

In Steel Path, Misery has an equal chance to spawn every 4 to 7 minutes as the other Acolytes. He will use his Reaper up close, and Soul Punch to knock down Tenno at range to close the distance. Misery will consistently summon two Void Shades of Infested Crawlers, replacing them shortly after they are slain.

If Angst and Violence have been slain before his appearance, he will resummon them as shadows.

Operation: Shadow Debt

Misery is only fought during every 5th wave of the final Defense and Defense Endurance mission of the Operation.

Misery will enter the battle alongside a retinue of enemies known as Void Shades. After losing 33% of his health Misery will get knocked over, after which he will begin summoning more Void Shades as reinforcements. Upon losing 66% of his health Misery will summon yet more reinforcements, this final group made up of Shadows of Angst and Violence.

Notes

- During Operation Shadow Debt, all Tenno are awarded a random mod from Operation: Shadow Debt after completing a wave in which Misery is fought. Misery himself will drop a mod upon death as well, allowing Tenno to collect two mods; Misery's drop table is identical to the mission's reward table. Players are given 5 seconds to collect the dropped mod before the mission ends.
- While playing the endurance mission of Shadow Debt, Misery can be both Desecrated and raised by  Shadows of the Dead.
- The shadow versions of Angst and Violence he summons will have regenerating shields with short delays and complete immunity to all status effects, making them considerably harder to deal with. They will also attack anything closest to them rather than only targeting the player specifically, and are not marked on the map.
 - Rarely they will be susceptible to  Magnetic status effects.

THE STEEL PATH: ACOLYTES JOIN THE BATTLE & MORE!
