Vendor Sources

Upon locating the shrine, players must anoint the large stone altar on top, which will consume the Apothic and summon a specter based on the Apothic used. Each player can take a different Apothic into the mission for multiple tries, although each player can only equip 2 Apothics of a single type, making the maximum number of specters achievable in a single mission 6.

Specters have a minimum level of 25, and gain 3 additional levels for every specter spawned.

- The Dusklight Sarracenia can be found in swampy waters in Grineer Shipyard missions, which are most commonly found on Ceres.
- Both Moonlight Dragonlilies and Sunlight Threshcones can be found on Grineer Forest missions on Earth, however the Moonlight Dragonlilies can only be found during the tileset's nighttime phase, and Sunlight Threshcones can only be found during the daytime phase.

Trivia

- The word "Apothic" shares its root with the Greek "apothéke" which means "repository" or "warehouse". The Romans took the derived "apothecaius" as a loanword meaning "shopkeeper" which in modern languages transformed into what in English is "pharmacy" (e.g. "Apotek" in Danish, "Apotheke" in German). The ingame depiction of a vial likely alludes to that.
