Stealth Test

27   EDIT

< Orokin Moon

This test takes place in a large, long hallway. In this room, there will be a glowing golden pad. After activating it, the player must make it to the other side of the room on the glowing pad to access the portal. The player must also avoid all blue lasers while going to the other side; touching a blue laser instantly fails the test. This test cannot be restarted.

Stealth Test

Stealth Test starting location.

- Lingering in the hallways to the side of the room for more than a few seconds will result in special black Rollers attacking the player, failing the test.
- In a group of 2 or more players, one player can start the test when the other player is at the end, easily completing the test.
- Leaving your Warframe at the other side of the room and using your Operator to ~~activate the test~~ will tie the test as well, which the Warframe will

After many test i figure out how to do the stealth test and i clearly say it this room is not bug, it's DE that apply a "anti-cheat" to do this test, so yeah you have to go through all the way of the side corridor (where there are many laser on the left and right at the begin) and then you can go to the bottom platform where end of the test is. I haven't test it in multi, and solo is better cause random can easly fail the test.

Am I missing something with the Operator cheese strat? Or like, cuz it has since been changed so that the frame jumps to the operator..., you can't cheat the test this way anymore, right??

So it seems it still is bugged? Came across it on Copernicus(capture), decided to clean all the corpus enemies before starting it and noticed the rollers spawned and found it odd, went to start it and it failed instantly, didn't have the time to leave the pad and the blue lasers didn't even flash on

It appears to be bugged at the moment (and possibly has been for a while based ... has been for a while based ... e the lasers never turned on, ... at the moment, and I wonder

This test has to be bugged, every single time I attempt it, I swear I didn't touch any laser or stay too long on the sides, but it always seems to not respond for some reason. There's also the possibility that enemies trigger the alarms but the first time I did it that wasn't an issue at all

SasoDuck • 3/30/2022

Just use your Operator for it; best way.

Every time it instantly fails me when using limbo and touching nothing? It just stops working before I even cross the room.

I completed this randomly the other day without even knowing I did. I was able to access the portal and obtain the mod... I was like: huh? what did I do? Was this an actual challenge? Hah.

The lasers from the death orbs also seem to instantly fail the test when touched, not just the blue lasers.

Has anyone translated the Orokin on the blue-laser-emitting orb? It has text around the main emitter.

This challenge must be super easy because I somehow managed to accidentally complete it without realizing it and got stealth drift and got confused at what happened.

Every time I start this I don't get any blue lasers and it's an immediate fail for me. Any solutions?

I let my loki stay at the finish, then my operator activated the test then he died and I was warped back to my loki and won. That's how you win it. Just remember to dash to avoid the blue lasers but let the gold ones kill your operator.

I don't understand how are you supposed to complete this one, it just auto fails every single time it starts and I don't even touch any laser, hell I don't even move

Do the lasers hit Loki if he's invisible?

A Fandom user • 3/31/2017

wtf dude, invisible =/= invulnerable

Sithalo • 4/14/2017

I think they where wondering if the blue lasers detect loki if he is invisible. if that is what they ment and if anyone was wondering, yes you can just run through blue lasers like a cloaked loki.
at least i just did. so it should work. unless those times i seen it hit it was actually just a near miss Side Note, in normal scifi, cloaking works by bending light around an object so that an outside observer cannot see the object. that would make you invulnerable to lasers.
