You say it can be connected to lots of things (I assume premade by them or in collaboration with others)

Can you build your own system to control it? (Is the api open) Is there any example of how to do this that you know?

You can use buttplug.io to control it! The buttplug.io interface supports all the Lovense toys.

Just ordered the max 2 with some of their water base lube. The wife is excited. She has the pink toy, and now we can use both at the same time while she is out of town for work with the app. Awesome reviews, thanks for all the information.

Which do you recommend Handy or Max 2?

safelustcom OP • 1y ago •

That's a really good question! I don't have a handy so it's tough to compare.

Both are great interactive masturbators -- although the Lovense seems to have more interactive games, along with the Lovense Vibemate that can be used.

The handy has its main functionality as a stroker, it's a very different feeling from vibrations and squeezing. It honestly really depends what you're looking for.

It would probably be better to compare the Keon to the Handy instead. With both the Handy and the Max 2 -- it's a tough choice based on your preferences - whether you prefer stroking, or squeezing+vibrations.

If you can afford it, why not get both? I have the Keon and the Max 2, and I use one or the other depending on my mood.

I have one and I got the vagina sleeve. It's not as tight and I actually find I prefer it over the original sleeve.

That's good to know, thanks! I'm looking forward to getting the vagina sleeve for it!

Do you stroke your cock/thrust in and out or just insert and let it do its thing?

I have one myself, and i must admit it is quite efficient at getting me off, to the point where I only used it a few times to avoid getting too used to it.

Biggest drawback is clearly the noise its far too loud.

I bought it, but it's too tight. What should I do?
