Sad and good news regarding Anitaku

The sad news is the owner of the site was involved in car accident and had surgery but he has wake up yet and the team from Anitaku can't do update anything on the site until the owner gets back since he is the only one who knows the domain account The good news is they said they are going to return when the owner wakes up with keep uploading anime One of the mods has left the message on the site know as Updownradr.com few hours ago

Do we know if this if a verified person? Feels weird to give an update there of all places and not over here or even on discord first if its true then hopefully owner wakes up soon and isnt in bad shape though!

Most likely fake. Cause why would the admin leave discord, reddit or their own info page to make an announcement in the radar website? Doesn't seem legit at all to me

Oh, hope they recover soon, this is probably a really stressful situation for them

Thank God the cops didn't find them

It kinda explain why the site is still working but not updating anything If the cops would arrested them the site would have been gone the same day they got arrested But it has been 1 week since then and the site is still working Tbh I think that's a guy with fake account trolling us. Cause if this really happen the mods would make an announcement in discord or their info page. And not in a website barely any people will see.

If true then I hope the owner has a speedy and healthy recovery, If false then I hope the op a slow and unhealthy 6 months of constipation.
