Gummies without lecithin?

I'm trying to make gummies either tonight or tomorrow but I don't have lecithin and can't get it anywhere by then (and don't want to spend the money). I was planning on using canna-coconut oil and NOT butter. I can't find any recipes without lecithin. I do NOT mind if they leak some oil or start to melt at room temperature. I can refrigerate them and I'm fine with that. Does anyone have any recipes themselves or advice?

UPDATE: There is a recipe I tried last night and it actually worked surprisingly well, better than I expected. I didn't use any lecithin or citric acid and had no separation or sweating at all! Comment if you want the recipe

Not sure if you have made them yet but last week while it cooled, poured it in right before it would even the few I left at room temperature.

Hope this helps 😊

I'd like the recipe pleaseeee!

I have made my MCT-infused canna oil now time for GUMMIES!

My question is if I have plenty of flavored gelatine can I use extra since I do not have the unflavored?

As for lecithin, I know the downfall of the oil separating but I do not have anything to replace it and I am not patient enough to wait after ordering online haha what could be other alternatives?
