4070 super and 7900 xt are the same price in my area, which one would you recommend?

Discussion

The 4070 Super and the 7900 XT are both at the same price in my area, and I can't make up my mind.

Anyone got some reasons to buy one or the other? So I can make a choice?

Im mainly gonna use it for 1440p gaming.

Update:

Thanks for all the recommendations! Still can't make up my mind about a gpu. Haha

For those wondering how these are the same price. The 4070s is about €710 the 4070 ti s is about 900 and the 7900xt is about €740.

Pricing in the eu is weird.

Definitely a 7900xt it's not even close . A 7900xt is closer to a 4070ti super. Reasons: way faster Way more vram for 1440p Frame gen in every game Cons: not good for work flow and editing, possible a bit worse in ray tracing.

RT performance depends heavily on the game.

The 7900XT in cyberpunk is just a bit better than a 4060Ti in Witcher 3 it's on 4070S level. So the range is pretty big, but the decision should be the XT either way.

Probably comparing the more expensive versions of the 4070 super against the cheaper versions of the 7900XT.

20% in rast is more than most of Nvidia 30 to 40 gen jumps . Also I exceed 12gb vram all the time at 1440p especially in rt. So no the xt is very much the premium card Also it has driver level frame gen

That's not even a choice, obviously 7900xt. The 7800xt is the 4070 super competitor.

If you wound up doing any productivity, like video editing, 3D work and the like, get Nvidia and save yourself a world of trouble. CUDA has creative software pretty much cornered. Same goes for machine learning, if you're into that.

If RT is a consideration look up comparisons between the two in current games you play and pick whichever gpu wins most of time. If it's not a consideration, pick the 7900xt.

7900xt hands down.

It tramples the 4070.
