You can show up at 8am and get a 5090

Yall remember all those people on this sub who've been telling you for the last month that you'll be able to show up at Microcenter at 8am on the 30th and get a 5090 because this launch will be so different than the rest ?

Well guess what , those same people have all been in line at Microcenter since about Sunday night , some earlier . I've never seen people line up a week out for a gpu launch. This is absolute madness especially when you consider the somewhat disappointing 50 series reviews
