pro tip - after owning every model since the c1 i finally discovered this today - if this is your PC monitor download LGTV Companion. It will turn the tv on when you turn on your computer, and turn it off when you shutdown. game changer!

I haven't tried that with my Windows PC but still want to. For now, I have automation set up to put it to sleep if I'm not sitting in front of my desk which works for all 4 inputs I have hooked up to this thing! Love it.

But then I went for the BB $899 deal on the 42" LG C4 4K OLED and I wish I never messed with anything else.

IMHO, truly the best monitor (ahem, TV) for gaming, productivity on Mac and PC.

If you keep skipping it because it's a TV, you should most definitely try it as your monitor. It's the perfect size (32 is good but 42 is perfect), not too wide, not too tall, and OMG #chefs-kiss

PS: For gamers info, some specs: 144Hz Refresh Rate, NVIDIA G-Sync, AMD FreeSync Premium and 0.1ms response time

Getting a lot of questions about my setup, so here's a consolidated list:

- VIVO STAND-V101G1 monitor arm
- VIVO Steel VESA LCD LED TV Mount Adapter Plate Bracket for Screens 32" to 55" (MOUNT-AD4X2)
- Govee floor lamp modified to be a desk lamp
- Elgato Wave Mic Arm
- Sennheiser MKH416
- Insta360 Link webcam
- RODE AI-1 audio interface (for when I'm not using my RODECaster DUO)
- Kanto YU2 speakers (with sub below)
- Logitech MX Creative Console
- Apple Magic Trackpad
- Satechi Slim X1 keyboard
- Logitech MX Master 3S mouse
- Six key macro keyboard
- ROG Ally Z1 Extreme
- Cheap ass felt desk pad
- 65" LG OLED C2 in background on wall
- VertDesk standing desk
- Miles Morales squishy

Hooked up to the LG's 4 HDMI ports, I have:

- M4 Pro Mac mini
- Windows PC
- Gaming PC
- ROG Ally

Since you tried the dual mode 32" how were they compared to the 42" ?

I've been using the C2 42" since its launch 2,5 years ago and love it but was curious about the dual mode for fast pace games.

Used a LG CX 48" as my monitor for four years. Now I just use my 85" TV as my monitor and do all my PC'ing from the couch. It's a natural progression. You'll see.

85?! That's sounds too small for peak productivity, ever consider dual monitors?
