LG C1 - Adjust Logo Brightness

This Post Again?

Hello,

I keep reading that the "Adjust Logo Brightness" setting actually dims the whole screen, especially when gaming? Is that true?

If yes, what's the point? I thought the whole idea of that setting was to selectively only lower the brightness of the logo and nothing else..

It doesn't. What does dim the whole screen is ASBL, and that has to be disabled through the service menu. I've tried it personally, Logo Brightness only dims some areas of the screen indeed. Pretty sure sometimes ASBL and Logo Dimming trigger at the same time, that's why people think the latter dims the whole screen.

I have mine set to high and don't notice a difference in the whole picture but also, have had it set to high out of the box without hesitation. I see all the complaints about ASBL and have never noticed it being too aggressive. It just comes down to the content. Keep mixing it up and enjoy your TV.

Having lighting issues, light entities appear blinding even when set to low brightness, and placed a good distance from walls. Any idea what's wrong?
