Any way to convert rvz files to gcn or iso?

I've downloaded a ton of gamecube roms for use on my homebrew wii with Nintendont however they are all formatted as rvz files which I don't believe is compatible with Nintendont. I've been looking for a tool to convert the files but I can't seem to find one. Anyone know what I can do?

2024-06-14 EDIT: Remember that you can directly play RVZ files in Dolphin without needing to convert them, so the following process is only required if you're trying to play on real hardware since RVZ is not supported in any of the loaders on Wii/Wii U as of this edit.

In recent versions of Dolphin (anything made in the last couple of years; not the old 5.0 version), click the "Config" button, then the "Paths" tab. Click "Add..." and locate the folder where the game in question is located. After clicking "Select Folder", you may also want to optionally enable "Search Subfolders", but regardless then click "Close".

Note that Dolphin can't read ZIP/RAR/7z archives or the like.

Back on the main Dolphin program window, it should now show the game(s) in question (if it doesn't, click the "Refresh" button). Right click the desired game and select "Convert File..." If it was in RVZ format then it should default to "ISO" in which case just click "convert", select wherever you want to save it to, and that's it.

This will batch convert RVZ files to ISO. Put this text in a .BAT file in the same folder as the RVZ files, adjust the path and run it:

for %%f in (*.rvz) do ("C:\path\to\DolphinTool.exe" convert -i "%%f" -o "%%~nf.iso" -f iso -s)

These are native to Dolphin (at least, right now). You'll have to load your files into that and convert back to ISO.

The instructions on that link are misleading as RVZ files cannot in fact be extracted using 7zip or WinRAR —to quote that article:

WinRAR or 7-Zip: to extract the contents of the RVZ file.

Open WinRAR or 7-Zip and extract the contents of the RVZ file.

This is not the correct process and trying to do this will result in a bad time.

My games aren't even showing up in Dolphin. The folders the games are in are there but there are no games in it when you open them. Then I get the prompt "dolphin could not find any GameCube/Wii ISOs or WADs".
