Anyone else use with Lyrion Music Server?

Discussion

When Plex support was dropped I switched over exclusively for home use.

It solves my local music (small, only about 10k tracks) combined with streaming music problem pretty seamlessly and I can also access lots of other online music sources at the same time.

I use Orange Squeeze and a piCorePlayer->DAC->Optical.

Looking for Tidal tips from anyone else that uses LMS.

I used to, but I stopped using it because of the hi res issues with the tidal integration. But it's very good organizing the library and shuffling it by song or by album.

I usually use it to listen radio in my favorites (there are already a lot of radio stations in Hi-Res).

I am a Tidal Hi-Fi customer.

If a track is playing on the radio, with LMS we can see that same artist on Tidal. It ends up being a cool navigation and allows you to discover a lot of music.

It turns out that through the LMS, I think Tidal doesn't do high resolutions. Is the maximum 16/44.1? With Tidal connect I would get 24/96, Atmos, etc.

Do you know what the maximum resolution was via Plex?

Is there any reason why LMS couldn't go higher than CD quality audio, which I guess my lossless FLAC rips must be?
