Which one do you think makes more sense? M4 Vs M3 Pro ?!

Discussion

I am a graphic design student, I need a mac for school but I am a bit confused. My general use will be Adobe programs and occasional video editing programs. The price of both Macs is the same in my country but last night I realized that the base model M4 is 4,500 currency cheaper than the M3 pro in my currency when I use the student discount (M4 remains cheaper when I use the student discount for both products). What are your ideas for these two Mac Pro.

Macbook Pro M4 14 inch Specs 10 CPU, 10 GPU, 16GB RAM, 512GB SSD

Macbook Pro M3 Pro 14 inch Specs 11 CPU, 14 GPU, 18GB RAM, 512GB SSD

Thanks for everything, I got the M4 <3

Get more ram. Graphic design won't notice a big difference in performance. You could use even a M1 and still be okay with it. Get the more ram model

This is a tough choice because the M4 will be somewhat faster for CPU tasks, but the M3 Pro will be faster for GPU tasks AND it has 2 GB more RAM. It is really hard to say. Flip a coin perhaps? :)

Or what about this, can you find a cheap M2 Max because it will have more RAM, more GPU cores, and dual video encoders which can speed up rendering video a lot.

which m2 max model do you recommend? cpu, gpu? I almost never buy a 2nd hand product among my buying principles, but I will take a look to have an idea, maybe there are still sellers who sell zero products.

I'd go with whichever is cheaper. Performance is going to be very similar.

I will wait until November 6 or 7 for the pre-order. I can't wait to see third-party testing, but prices will probably increase after the pre-order period due to economic conditions in my country. The base model Mac M4 is 1600 dollars, while the base model m4 will cost 2200 dollars due to taxes and exchange rate difference in my country. If 3rd party tests are not released by the end of the pre-order period, I will do the biggest coin flip of my life.

CPU wise, M4 is better. GPU wise, M3 Pro has more cores and it's better. Some tasks perform better on more cores.
