As already mentioned in AutoMod reply, this is easily fixed by making use of Troubleshoot Section in the GenP Guides and following the appropriate method for the shown popup, which for you is just the common Unlicensed popup.

If the correct method of removal is done for the popup shown to you then it will be removed and not be appearing, if it is still being shown then you are doing something wrong or have just missed out a step somewhere.

The common Unlicensed popup just needs latest lines added in hosts file, either manually yourself, Pop-up Blocker button as a one-off fix, automated through the use of GenP command line flag, or use of third-party apps such as SwitchHosts or HostsMan.

Otherwise, you just simply block the apps own .exe in your used firewall, ensuring it is done in the correct firewall of either Windows Defender or a used third-party.

All as already mentioned in the Troubleshoot Section linked in GenP Guides, hosts file or used firewall.

(GenP) Before, you ask, I have patched it twice, made multiple in/outbound rules for it, etc. etc., deleted the AGS file, all of that good stuff.
