You don't use IP addresses but the host name.

dns.google is 8.8.8.8

1dot1dot1dot1.cloudflare-dns.com is 1.1.1.1

Come on, really?!... What should I use instead of my local network Raspberry Pi DNS server address (192.168.0.x)? Can I resolve that somehow to have a name?

You need to specify the hostname, not the IP

or use dns.adguard.com

helps in blocking ads. Do note that if this dns is down, all connections out will be blocked. that's when you need to remove this setting.
