Is NanDesuKa a good sub group?

Question

Looking to watch AoT weekly releases, they seem the be the fastest at subbing, are their subs reliable?

They're a web-dl group, not a sub group. Their subs are only as good as the source they're ripped from. The AoT ones are garbage.

Then how are they able to rip before the episode airs with English subs?

My problem with baws was that it released at midnight for me, but I could always watch the next day, thanks for the help

I personally found it helpful. They really do upload a raw quality experience material I always replenish my eyes shine by their good quality content.

I've just been going with SubsPlease and it's been fine. I'm not in any kind of a race to watch any series ASAP, and they're what pops up on AB

I hate complaining about something free, but it would literally be better if they did nothing. 100% of the time my Sonarr setup downloads a release from them, they manage to mess it up somehow. Either they put the complete wrong subs, the timing is minutes off or they display two line sentences in the wrong order. I've since learned how to exclude them from my auto downloads.
