Best DVD Ripper

Question

Sorry, I am pretty clueless when it comes to computer stuff so if this is an easy fix, I apologize. I have tried googling and still can't find what I need. I have several dvd series that I would like to get onto my computer and from there be able to watch on the tv. I gather that plex is great for the 2nd part of that. However, every ripper I have tried to download is giving me errors saying they can't copy the DVD due to copy protection. So, is there something I am missing that I can download from microsoft store or somewhere else?

MakeMkv. What most people use to grab video files and subtitles if included.

Sorry to comment on this since it's been a while. But when using this program is it pretty easy to navigate and use from your personal experience?

Did you use free software? Some free cant handle complex protection. you can try paid ones like videobyte, dvdfab, or winx. try the trial version to see if they solve your problem. If not, maybe hardware issue.

Cisdem Video Converter. By far, the best I've used. And in fact, it's an all-in-one video processing solution. It's not free.
