A Chinese firm has used robots to install a 350MW solar farm in Australia and says each robot does the work of '3 or 4' humans, but much quicker & it's looking to 100% automate solar farm setup.

By prepping the land, you mean removing the biters, right?

After discovering the state of the prisoners and many train wagons filled with corpses, they started executing the guards or letting the prisoners take revenge on them.

Doesn't the Pixel watch still use fitbit? That wouldn't solve OP's software concerns.

This sub is more infested with bots than most subs, it seems like. Their profile just became active and only have posted here but are asking for you to message them on telegram.

Also, found this image online, not theirs: <https://in.pinterest.com/pin/769834130095389687/>

I agree. And I'll keep using them until Home Assistant Voice improves. It's not there yet.

That NAS may come in handy if you want to use cameras with Home Assistant. I use frigate and the NAS has been great for saving video.

At this point I really don't see the value in buying anything from them, except Pixel phones. This is why I've migrated to Home Assistant and use basically any hardware that isn't Google.

If Eagles lose to any team in the Super Bowl, I want it to be the Bills.

I'm not sure the country could handle a Bills/Eagles Super Bowl though.
