VPS providers that are "seedbox compliant"

Is there a list of VPS providers that can be used as seedbox?. I was using crowncloud but after two years of no issues whatsoever they started giving me abuse reports warnings. Looks like they fixed the reporting system or they are not giving it a blind eye anymore.

Anyway I had Hetzner (from which I'm banned) and NOVOS (excellent service, no reports, but they closed down).

With NOVOS I had something like 20TB bandwidth 1 vCPU (Ryzen) 1 GB RAM and 20 GB storage with 1 TB NAS storage attached for 7,50€. Is there something like that?. OVH? Kimsufi?

PS: I do need a KVM because I run my full infrastructure on Docker. I just press a button and a new seedbox is provisioned. That's why I can't use the average seedbox that comes everything out of the box. Plus I use rclone to upload to Gdrive and most of the seedboxes I checked out don't offer this.

EDIT: Went with iHostART 1TB VPS plan and it's great! Low budget but as a seedbox it totally works

You have very cheap plans for the specs. I wonder what is the catch or how can you survive that?

how you got banned from hetzner? Wasn't there any option to avoid that?

I will clarify: didn't get banned, but they have my ID and I've got continuous Abuse reports with suspension warnings. The rest of the VPS don't know who the heck I am, they do.

With that price range or something below that there will be seedboxes with shared resources and such boxes can barely give you 1:1 ratio on private trackers on couple of trackers, unless the trackers you choose are easy to maintain ratio, for e.g FL. If you choose Public trackers then there is no problem, for maintaining ratio. I use Liteserver vps provider no issues, works rock solid. Terrahost, Time4vps, Hostens, etc are list of few other providers but they come with limited traffic but ofcourse they can be used for rclone.

Yes only public trackers for now. I don't seed (sorry :()) because I use a small disk space as buffer to upload to rclone.

Look at buyvm in Luxemburg if you are European. They have unlimited bandwidth 1gig connection and support have been good.

Ideal for anyone running seedbox style stuff

Another option is appboxco which I use.

It's a seedbox but had rclone etc that you need

I use BuyVM vps for seedbox. Works well.

I think the reality is even though the box provider may not specifically state that rclone can be used, it can still be installed, even on a shared box, and used to do server-side transfers to Gdrive. At least this is true based on my personal experience.
