Hello, im been playin mtg since 2014, but always on paper. I played in the twin era, but since its ban i had played only cedh, however i would like to return to modern and also playing legacy, so i want to test sum lists on the mtgo, but i hate windows lol, have anyone tried to use mtgo tru wine or proton? Or is there another way to launch the software? Thx in advance for your responses uwu

This docker image has usually worked well for me (requires docker, some additional setup)

The Lutris install broke several times for me or was super laggy, so I switched to a VM as a last resort.
Pretty obnoxious having MTGO as the only program/game necessary to do so for me. :(

wine works (since daybreak's move wine 7.20+ required, due recent bugfix). Someone in thread mention docker container with everything premade, or you can use their dockerfile as reference how to install.
