Suggestions for 4 device 1 monitor KVM Switch capable of 5120x1440@240Hz?

Discussion

I am looking for a 4 device in, 1 monitor out KVM switch capable of 5120x1440@240Hz using DisplayPort for my shared work and private desk setup.

Nice-to-haves:

- Dedicated audio channel
- Software-based input switching (though buttons are fine too)
- PiP between multiple inputs with mouse/keyboard sharing
- USB 3.0 hub rather than a 2.0 hub

So far my search has not been too fruitful, maybe you guys can point me in the right direction. Cheers model: <https://www.store.level1techs.com/products/p/14-display-port-kvm-single-4computer-6zepx-s4kf3>

This thread seems to conclude that they were able to do 5120x1440@240Hz after some changes to cable configurations as the poster was using a lot of adapters: <https://forum.level1techs.com/t/level1tech-1-4-display-port-kvm-switch-dual-monitor-hdr-240hz-not-working/204388/39>

It looks like if you stick with quality DP 1.4+DSC cables all the way through (Club3D and Cable Matters have DP certified cables, I would stick with their DP40/DP80 cables) you should be good to go.

My LG UltraGear DQHD (5120x 12240@240hz) had been working with these advanced DDM-class KVM switches without issue.

The differences between those DDM-class KVM switches and DP1.4 models from L1T are mainly all DP1.4 KVM switch from L1T can not support full-bus DP1.4 link trans for EDID emulations and EDID feeding to all connected systems. And those DP1.4 KVM switches from ConnectPRO are all having EDID emulations as built-in standard.

However, it is good suggestion to use DP2.1 DP40 oer DP80 (even better) cables for the sharing monitor over 4K144Hz , 5K120/240Hz in the KVM setup.

Has anyone ever herd of this brand before? Anyone actually own this monitor? Seems like a great deal for a 32:9 OLED.
