The regular old Magic Wand is a classic for a reason. That said, it really is worth it to spend the extra 20-30 bucks to get the new model. It has a silicone head, a motor with 10 speeds, and 10 different vibration patterns, and is rechargeable, and thus com giggle and moan and applied strategically on safer body parts can help warm me up for applying it carefully through clothing or bedding onto less safe body parts and then its just amazing and can help dispel/mask dysphoria due to sheer quantity of stimulation enough to actually have fun), and I've also heard good things about Lovehoney's Own Massager.

Meanwhile in the states I've seen Ohjoysexttoy recommend the rechargeable wand from Good Vibrations soooo yeah.

In reply to OP's edit, if you read the wiki page on the "Hitachi Magic Wand" you can see its being currently sold by distributor Vibratex under the name "Magic Wand Original" and carefully leaving the name Hitachi off it.

However the phrase "magic wand" and "hitachi" with regards to sex toys generally these days means wand style massager/sex toys, and hence why you're getting recommendations for things other than

The generic replacement is available on Amazon. The more important than that difference, though, is the actual dial. It plugs into the wall, and then the wand plugs into it. It lets you adjust speed/intensity for you, which may be different from the original sometimes.

there are USB-powered and/or AAA-battery powered tripod massagers which are pretty powerful although nowhere as intense as a mains powered one and only costs 150 baht. :D :D its smaller and lighter on the pocket and hand (oops tmi), and there is lesser risk of going "numb" from overstimulation

well you can buy them from the Internets <http://www.aliexpress.com/item/Mini-Tripod-Massager-USB-Electric-Massager-5pcs-lot-Free-shipping/740489765.html>
