Anyone see the new official ash catcher?

Has anyone bought it? Anyone used it? Is there a video about it? How does it work?

Can you show what the inside of the magnetic piece looks like? I'm just curious about how it directs the airflow down into the glass/water, but not curious enough to buy it outright to find out. I have a GRAV catcher right now that works perfect, but the official one does look nice, just want to make sure it's literally just as good.

How is it in terms of keeping your stundenglass clean? Also nice bowl piece

In terms of keeping it clean, the glass bowls are dishwasher safe. Due to the borosilicate glass and its strong chemical compounds, it allows for a higher yield on temperature changes without damage to the glass.

Another perk to the borosilicate glass that can resist the acid and chemical degradation. You don't have to worry about any time of chemical absorbing into the glass.

the top part looks like it only holds the Hookhah glass bowl , it doesn't seem to fit any 18mm or 14mm . More like a mouthpiece for inhaling . Why don't they make one that can hold water for filtration ? No more dry hits

Here is the premise of how the Stundenglass works. It uses the negative pressure created as water falls from one chamber into the other to pull air through the burning plant material, replacing the empty space with smoke as the water vacates it.

A couple benefits of the Gravity Infuser is that it is a cleaner high compared to traditional bongs. It allows for a smoother, flavorful hit. It also is very versatile. It can be used not just for flower, hookah and wood chips, but you can also attach a dab rig. That's just a couple of the many benefits.

So, for the price point on one of these, you are really getting 4 units in one.
