Best seafood Market for fresh seafood in Chicago/burbs

Question

Hey y'all!

I'm doing a seafood feast for Christmas and am wondering what the best seafood market is to get raw seafood. I'm looking for oysters (ideally a selection), mussels (ideally PEI), and the freshest possible fish (grouper maybe, this is a gametime decision). Anyone have any good recommendations?

I'm in the western burbs, but willing to travel.

Supreme Lobster

Second this. I live in the city and drive out there early Saturday mornings to get dinner.

H Mart, Jong Boo or Dirks on Clybourn in Lincoln Park. Call ahead and order for Dirks - mad busy at Xmas. Never done the Asian markets for Xmas but ordering seems like a good idea too.

I have to hard disagree on H Mart. I have tried their fish a few times and was disappointed with the quality.

For oysters, just mail order them.

For fresh fish, it highly depends on what you want to buy and how much you want to spend.
