Looking for cultivation donghua about protagonist getting his power stolen when he was an infant

Solved!

I remember the main character was born with the strongest cultivation potential, but would sleep all day long since birth. His parents thought there was something wrong with him so they took him to a doctor from another family household. The evil family discovered his power, then forcefully extracted and implanted it into their son. The last thing I remember is the main character growing up, exposing the evil family for taking people's cultivation potential, and eventually taking back his power.
