HEIL_ALFRED

I want to attach an SRT file to an MP4

Production question

how can I do this, I made both the mp4 file and the SRT but is there a way I can make them merge together? Its a play, and i did the SRT like subtitles, I cant find a way to attach them together.
THANK YOU!

What do you mean by 'merge them together'?

Like that a player recognizes them as together and plays them together? Or rather how to import them into an editing program to burn them into a 'new' mp4?

IIRC you have to name both the mp4 and the SRT the same filename for players like VLC to recognize them as together automatically. For burning them into a new export it depends on your editing software, but shouldn't be too hard to figure out.

Here's an example command from ChatGPT that shows how to mux an SRT file into a video without re-encoding the video/audio streams.

ffmpeg -i input_video.mp4 -i subtitles.srt -c copy -c:s mov_text output_video.mp4
```

You want to add caption to mp4 video based on SRT file. Right?

If this is correct, I searched Google online with "Add Captions to Videos Online from srt file". The results show many tools. One tool caught one eye is VEED.io. Maybe give a try to see whether it works for you.

I also checked the first result like <https://www.happyscribe.com/subtitle-tools/add-srt-to-video>, which asks two input, first being mp4 file and the second being SRT file. It seems like the tool can also work for your use case.

Free software handbrake can re-encode an MP4 with the option to hard code in a subtitle file.

If you're using a Mac, try Subler. Open original MP4, drag and drop the SRT onto the interface, then save it.

why do you want to merge them? normaly SRT is external file that can be loaded to players additionally to video
