Buying orbs from sketchy websites

Question

Hello all, new to poe, great game. I'm playing with a group of guys and we're mid game ish (level 50's). A couple of the guys keep suggesting buying certain orbs online for real money, my question is with how robust the trading system is in this game, I'm assuming buying anything from a non POE affiliated website is a bannable offense right?

Correct. Please mock your friends for sucking at the game and wasting their money.

Got it, that's what I was assuming I think they just needed to hear it from someone else. Thank you

Be sure to berate them for supporting account theft and trade scammers while you're at it.

Banned at best, hacked at worst.

Why do you even have to ask this question? Read the TOS.

I did, I see it under restrictions, I just wanted a human to tell them they'll be banned :P

There is an absolutely massive RMT market for Poe items. Some of GGG's investors even run websites - don't post about it and they won't get banned

I mean, you only go to jail by breaking laws if you get caught. As long they dont do it in a public way, I dont se how they can be banned. But they sure can be scammed.

That being said, I dont recommend at all, feels like wasted money.

that's what usually is referred to as RMT, and is basically a bannable offense (and they do crack down hard on this) in ANY onlinegame.

RMT can absolutely get your account banned.

No telling on when the hammer would fall but they would be risking their entire account regardless.

Don't listen to people who tell you how to spend your money. The game isn't too hard to learn and get better at - part of the experience.

Crafted this beauty today and, well, had to just log back on to amazon after leaving it in the dust for months.
