Am I wasting my time on Tamer?

Question

I'm coming back to the game and have found succ tamer to be extremely enjoyable. My question is everything I see basically says it's hot garbage outside of 1v1. Anyone have experience in node war/siege to basically back up it's not great? I only ask this because it feels like there are only like 4 tamers that play anymore.

With a $3+ trillion market cap and a history of outperformance, there's nothing 'mid' about investing in mid caps. Get started with MDY, State Street's mid-cap ETF.

"And have found succ tamer to be extremely enjoyable"
If you are having fun, who cares what others say about the class?

A good tamer is always annoying.

FWIW Tamer isn't too hot in larger scale PvP, but recently she's been performing well (based on everything I could see) as a mid-late game grinder. Actually just rolled one for my new seasonal for that reason (plus she is adorable and I get a big floofy pet!)

No you are not wasting your time, succ tamer is a pretty solid class.

It is squishy and has above average apm so most players don't bother with it but it can achieve good results. If you are having fun keep going that is all that matters.

In pvp her 1v1 is pretty good but her large scale pvp performance is her biggest downside I would say, awaken is better in large scale because more iframes and fg + the 100% is really good.

so much love put into them.

She was my cup of tea on release and the mount is great for a boss alt. You become unkillable to all bosses.

Play what you like. The only class that's unviable by wide regard is succ Nova. I see Tamers in AoS, open world, and in my guild farming late game spots. Again, play what you like.
