Why in gods name would anyone want to play Standard (non-league)?

Question

Trying to wrap my brain around this one, whats the point?

There are people who do not have enough time to really accomplish something within the 3 months of a league.

There's people who only play a couple hours a week and play standard so they can actually make progress on atlas and stuff like that. A few hours a week will never get you anywhere decent in a 3 month temp league.

lets say you miss league start by almost a month, you could start fresh in an already established economy or you could play standard with your hordes of currency and maps from all time

In your scenario I would still play with the new league mechanic.
