Wouldnt be surprised if in a years time the stonewall memorial is a memorial to "the brave policemen who stood up to the riot" or some bullshit like that.

It's already being whitewashed as 'a peaceful protest by cishets for generic rights'. They're giving it the conservative MLK Jr treatment of slowly distilling it into a generic 'this peaceful moment in history is what marked when everyone, everywhere, got full access to the Freedoms and Rights DLC'

They're rewriting it in a way to be able to say 'everyone got rights on this day, and anyone who's asking for more rights in the 21st century is just trying to get extra privileges'.

The Travel State Gov site that discusses LGBT traveling literally got changed to “Lesbian, Gay, and Bisexual Travelers Travel Information”

They turned the T into “travelers” and still follow it with a second word “travel”

Sartre's 1946 essay Réflexions sur la question juive has been coming to mind a lot recently:

"Never believe that anti-Semites are completely unaware of the absurdity of their replies. They know that their remarks are frivolous, open to challenge. But they are amusing themselves, for it is their adversary who is obliged to use words responsibly, since he believes in words. The anti-Semites have the right to play. They even like to play with discourse for, by giving ridiculous reasons, they discredit the seriousness of their interlocutors. They delight in acting in bad faith, since they seek not to persuade by sound argument but to intimidate and disconcert. If you press them too closely, they will abruptly fall silent, loftily indicating by some phrase that the time for argument is past."

↑ 6 ↓ Reply ...

Waff3le • 2d ago

It was never going to stop at just one minority.

↑ 94 ↓ Reply ...

RainyGardenia • 2d ago

Eventually they're just going to make it ambiguous enough to where the history of the event is completely obscured. They've already started by saying "Living as a member of the Stonewall community was illegal". Completely glossing over the types of people oppressed and instead making it feel like it's about the location.

Conservatives loathe intolerance (censorship in their eyes) of hatred and bigotry, but when in power eagerly use the full might of the state to erase groups of human beings they don't like.

⊖ ↑ 94 ↓ Reply ...

Sophia_Forever • 1d ago

That's exactly how Holocaust history is taught. Books were burned at the very beginning but it's rarely mentioned that many of those books were queer books on anything from science to art to history. All you get is some vague "books from undesirable groups."

BTQIA+ down, LG next on the chopping block. Wonder when the "LGB-drop-the-T" crowd will wise up (jk, they'll probably blame us til the bitter end)

118 Reply ...

Eviscerator14 • 2d ago

Most of those are drop the T dudes are conservative straight people pretending to be LGB so they can further divide us. Very few LGB people actually want to drop the T. Don't let them fool you.

96 Reply ...

glitterandnails • 2d ago

Divide and conquer is the fundamental strategy of right wingers.

34 Reply ...

TheSwordDane • 2d ago

Exactly. The far right never ever rests, they never sleep, and they never stop coming so long as they see victory of achieving their fascist goals. The establishment Dem party is intent on jettisoning any mention of protecting Trans Rights after their big election strategy meeting in February hosted by 3rd Way.

They want to blame their loses on Trans people and Progressives, instead of where blame belongs with their bad messaging, lack of efforts for helping the working poor, propping up of an unpopular Biden, or their lies about his cognition, or his crash and burn debate, or throwing Harris in at the eleventh hour, or their addiction to AIPAC money and their complicity in supplying Israel's genocide.

Moderate Dems will be of little help now. Even my democratic governor just a few days ago signed into law a Republican sponsored bill "Parents Protection Act" that allows adult guardians to stop trans minors from dressing like their preferred gender, to force them not to be referred to as their chosen gender, and to direct their health care as they see fit (aka no GAC). It also bans any adoption agency or foster placement agency from denying adult applicants who admit that they will not honor a trans kid's transition, pronouns, dress, or GAC.

17 Reply ...

glitterandnails • 2d ago

Dems partly enabled this by doing little to push back against the coordinated attack on us since 2022. Dems could have figured out how to push back but end up being so goddamn weak and incompetent in terms of strategy and messaging that it's criminal or even essentially being a false opposition party, caring more about begging for money from constituents and corporations than pushing back against the right wing with the effort needed. They have shown that they can't even protect America from fascists.

That's very true. I have had the misfortune of meeting one of the real ones though. Real piece of work - and he was emotionally abusive of his boyfriend to boot. He has a habit of pissing people off, intentionally pushing their buttons. In other words, exactly the abrasive type you'd expect to join that crowd.

A friend of mine once saw him doing that to me at her birthday party, and straight up kicked him out!

But yeah, it is important to remember that a large volume of those voices are astroturfed as hell.

The switch from openly vs. authentically is interesting too since it seems to imply that bisexuals and trans people somehow aren't living authentically.

Doesn't look like they're just 'dropping the T', but literally anything from LGBTQ that isn't strictly lesbian or gay.

Trans people are living proof that sex and gender are not the same and that they are not a pure social and biological binary.

Likewise, bisexual people are living proof that sexuality is not a pure social and biological binary.

Cis gays and lesbians? Sure, they're still living proof that sexuality and sex are not the same, but they're different. You know, somehow. More binary. Also, several white gay men hold oligarchy or at least exceedingly wealthy CEO status in our society.
