Wouldnt be surprised if in a years time the stonewall memorial is a memorial to "the brave policemen who stood up to the riot" or some bullshit like that.

The lazy way they removed the word "transgender" from Sylvia Rivera's description shows exactly just how unserious and stupid these people are.

kinda reminds me of cdesign proponentsists, though I don't think anything could be as bad as that Eventually they're just going to make it ambiguous enough to where the history of the event is completely obscured. They've already started by saying "Living as a member of the Stonewall community was illegal". Completely glossing over the types of people oppressed and instead making it feel like it's about the location.

Conservatives loathe intolerance (censorship in their eyes) of hatred and bigotry, but when in power eagerly use the full might of the state to erase groups of human beings they don't like.

BTQIA+ down, LG next on the chopping block. Wonder when the "LGB-drop-the-T" crowd will wise up (jk, they'll probably blame us til the bitter end)

Most of those are drop the T dudes are conservative straight people pretending to be LGB so they can further divide us. Very few LGB people actually want to drop the T. Don't let them fool you.

The majority of queer people will still not wake up and realize what's going on until it is far too late. Next are the lesbians who will be dismissed because women, and then the gay men who will have no allies left.

But the price of eggs was just far too high In November right?
