JBL endurance peak 3 review- 1yr later

Review

I bought these earphones shortly after they came out last spring I believe. I wanted something I could workout with, and keep on if I wanted to shower (not wash my hair ofc). I wanted good bass, good noise canceling, and something with a long battery life that won't fall out.

PROS: -VERY long battery life. I'd wear them for hours and hours and hours and they wouldn't die. I'd only charge the case one every couple weeks, and it was a quick charge. -they are water resistant- I've taken many showers with them (but carefully, not trying to get them wet). -somewhat durable/durable case.

CONS: -so fucking uncomfortable. They would make my ears sore. No real way to change the size of them like in others where you can switch out the rubber tips- bc of how big they are. -horrible volume- even at its most loud, wasn't loud at all imo. Not noise canceling at all. It always sounded far away... they just didn't fit right in my ears and were not soft or forgiving. -one of them randomly one day just lost 75% of its audio ability. Literally operating max 25% volume (which already was low) at FULL volume. Most of the time just couldn't hear anything at all. -tap

What a disaster, I just canceled my purchase, it's good that I read all this on time, everyone says they are rubbish, I will look for another option, the problem is that there are not many alternatives with the ear grip, I like that and it is comfortable

This is weird. I've purchased these headphones for work recently and have had a pleasant experience so far. Maybe I haven't owned them long enough

I thought mine were rubbish until I got the fit right, then it was night and day. Loud and clear and comfy.

Disable Absolute Volume and now all my earphones are louder. These sound pretty good so far, I put the smaller ear tips on mine

Comparto tu opinión. Acabo de comprar unos y la calidad de audio es muy deficiente. Además son incómodos al oído. A eso hay que sumarle que el volumen es bajo y no se aprecia para nada la calidad de los dispositivos jbl. En definitiva, los voy a devolver, por incómodos, de mala calidad y de volumen deficiente.
