PSA if you play gemling, you cannot upgrade your gem levels even with adaptive capability allocated

They are probably preparing a significant patch to fix bugs affecting classes and passives. That's likely the main reason for their silence about these major issues. I also bet it will include a full free respect for everyone.

They haven't fixed leech resistance either so blood mage is broken and not in a good way. I assume they'll drop a big patch before the end of the week

Yes. I've been having this problem ever since the node was allocated. You can bypass it by creating a new gem but you don't get your extra sockets :/

I wish GGG could fix this soon because I've hopped onto another character indefinitely, until they've fixed this bug.

It's a real bummer but it is what it is.

I keep around a couple of cheap items with no relevant stats other than high attribute values. You can equip those to level up your gems.

Rather than upgrade the gem, try just cutting it from a skill gem then socketing it.

the issue still stands that jeweller orbs are wasted if you make a new gem everytime you want to upgrade its level

I have the same issue with the Unique gloves that use STR to satisfy DEX and INT requirements for melee skills. Trying to use it on my Fire monk.

Weraween • 7mo ago

That sounds amazing, what are those gloves called? I need them for my quarterstaff titan.

I had this issue and I recreated the gems and it worked. I'm not having issues leveling any gems anymore I think it bugs out on the ones you have equipped when you get the node.

You only need two levels upgrades in regular game

Just want to appreciate that higher level support gems don't have level requirements, meaning after your first character, you can use the spares to help level your alts.

Completing Odysseys and Maps solely on Hard should also grant lower baseline difficulty awards at the same time.
