Best Res Macro Message?

[Question]

I love these. My own is "The floor doesn't have an aggro table, so it doesn't need tanked."

What are some of your favorites?

The best res macro is definitely no res macro.

Rez macros like these is a clear indicator of a... well, not a good person. Do you think that player, who died (often not by their fault), need your insult? Do you think that other party members need to read your self-important shit in the middle of combat?

Good healers don't use macro for rez anyway - people die a lot in savage/ultimate prog and using macro would flood party chat.

I hate rez macros. I'm aware that I did. I now also hate you.

A good res macro is much like the meaning of life.

There isn't one, but feel free to lie to yourself otherwise.

Honestly I like just a simple "Raising <name>". Any more funny messages can offend people, any more epic ones get annoying the third time around.

None. I even irrationally hate the ones that just say "raising <t>."

Just a simple "(Blank) reviving" as a healer is appreciated. I usually will let the other healer quick-rez first so we don't double on the cast, but having the name front and center really helps me. Any of the long macros are just a glaze in my eyes, I never read them because I'm trying to see who I need to help.

I don't mind the long messages, people having fun in their own way. But I'd prefer funny lines or quotes to condescending messages.

/p "auto translate name of raise dependance on class" <t>

While I usually raise without a macro, I do have one for the few situations where coordinating raises could be useful.

"{Raise} => <t>"

No witty twelveliners, no soundeffects and no ASCII images. If I have to parse a novel to figure out who is being raised the macro serves no purpose and I may as well just risk blowing my swiftcast-raise on the same person.

SecondBit • 6y ago

My personal favorite is, "I may not be your parent, <t>, but I will {Raise} you!"

Funny without being at the expense of whoever you're raising.

One that I saw my FC friend have for about a day was "Pray return to the waking sands <Char Name>". Which my god triggered so many people.

Oh that's good. I like that one a lot.

"I'm not your father, but I will Raise you!"

I don't have a raise macro, but after seeing how many awful people are offended by them I might start using one.
